

University of Sunderland

Harvey-Golding, Louise, Simpson, Diane, Phillips, Carrie and Smiles, Julie (2022) 'I've been asked to return to my home country' - An exploratory study into the discrimination experienced by Eastern European women living in Tyne and Wear. In: CASS public lecture (25 May 2022), 25 May 2022, University of Sunderland. (Unpublished)

Downloaded from: <http://sure.sunderland.ac.uk/id/eprint/14863/>

Usage guidelines

Please refer to the usage guidelines at <http://sure.sunderland.ac.uk/policies.html> or alternatively contact sure@sunderland.ac.uk.

1

2

3

Eastern European Population in Tyne and Wear

Almost 1% of the population of Tyne and Wear were born in Eastern Europe – around 6000 (Office for National Statistics (ONS), 2021).

Majority from Poland, with smaller numbers from Hungary, Latvia, Romania and Russia and fewer from other Eastern European countries (ONS, 2021).

Most applicants of the European Union Settled Scheme (EUSS) in Tyne and Wear are originally from Romania or Poland, with a significant minority also from Czech Republic, Bulgaria, Lithuania, and Slovakia (Home Office, 2021).

4

Research Aim and Objectives

Aim:

- Understand the lived experiences of Eastern Europe women living in Tyne and Wear, in terms of discrimination, hate crime and access to health care and support services.

Objectives:

- Investigate the prevalence and frequency of discrimination against Eastern European women living in Tyne and Wear, in terms of the nine protected characteristics under the Equality Act (EA) 2010.
- Investigate the prevalence and frequency of hate crime against Eastern European women living in Tyne and Wear, according to the definition of hate crime by the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS).
- Examine the barriers and challenges faced by Eastern European women living in Tyne and Wear, in terms of access to health care and support services.

5

Research Design

6

7

Survey Participant Demographics

- N = 127 EE Women, mean age = 35.3 years (18-62)
- Polish (68%), Bulgarian (10%), Czech (7%), Romanian (6%), Slovak (4%), Russian, Latvian, Albanian, Lithuanian and Serbian (5%)
- Bachelor's degree or equivalent (33%), school/high school level qualifications (26%), master's degree or equivalent (25%), college/FE level qualifications (13%), Doctoral degree/PhD (3%)
- Full-time employed (51%), part-time employment (17%), self-employed (11%), unemployed (14%), student (4%), furloughed (2%), long-term sick/ disabled (1%)
- Routine and semi-routine occupations (53%) vs higher managerial, administrative and professional occupations

8

Incidence of discrimination towards Eastern European women by area/ setting

Area/ Setting	Yes (n)	Yes (%)	No (n)	No (%)	Total No. Responses
Employment	37	37.8%	61	62.2%	98
Businesses/ Services	25	25.3%	74	74.7%	99
Housing	19	19.2%	80	80.8%	99
Health Services	14	13.9%	87	86.1%	101
Public Bodies	12	12.5%	84	87.5%	96
Education	10	10.1%	89	89.9%	99
Transport	10	10.0%	90	90.0%	100

Equality Act 2010 areas where direct and indirect discrimination, harassment and victimization are protected

9

Access to Services

- Challenges in communicating with healthcare staff and service providers, and in understanding information relating to health care or other support services
- Refused health care, support services or other public services due to lack of correct documentation (such as proof of ID or address)
- 40% of women stated that they had concerns about their ability to access health care, support and public services post BREXIT
- 40% stated that that Covid-19 restrictions, such as lockdown, impacted on their ability to access health care, support services or other public services

13

Focus Group Findings

14

Discrimination Towards Eastern European Women in Employment

"They called me, 'Polish assassin'"

He was undermining me, belittling me and I was his punch ball for everything, because I was foreigner, and I was a woman"

"When I started there, I had, 'she's a Polish, she can't speak English."

"He came when nobody was in the room. That was his tactic. I started crying and he said it's my fault. I said he shouldn't talk with me without a witness. He said, I will talk with whoever want, nobody going to do anything."

Every time I was complaining, it never went resolved, never he was told off. There were ten grievances from me about his behaviour and he only got a verbal warning"

"On the Polish side, people are used by their employers. The women are fired because of their pregnancy."

"I can't afford to be without work. I have two kids and I'm a single parent. So, I couldn't be without work."

15

Discrimination Towards Eastern European Women and Girls in Education

"Most of my experiences with discrimination and racism have happened when I was a student."

"This boy who would constantly say racial things about me, and like 'you should go back home,' and everyone would laugh."

"I've been a student at [Name of University] and I've been facing racist comments in private and in front of my classmates regarding my race. I've been asked to return to my home country by one of my lecturers."

"It was really bad at school. Boys would often call me, Bulgarian bitch, Bulgarian cow, Russian bitch."

"A senior lecturer, who was quite racist towards me. Everything I did was a problem. For example, coming a minute late, going to the toilet, she would give me a bad look. Yet when an English student did it there wasn't any problems."

16

Discrimination, Harassment and Hate Crime Towards Eastern European Women in Public

"The most traumatizing was when I was on my way home. There was a group and they started the whole, 'Brexit, get out of here!' Then there's something flying, and it hit me. It was a bottle of water, but I thought it was something else, like bodily fluid. That shook me because they were all men, and about six of them."

"It [Brexit] made some people feel more empowered. They feel they have the right to be this way towards some people. So, some people were showing it more, like it was OK to be harassing people."

"When Brexit was happening, they were, 'no more foreigners coming in. I'm on my way home, at the bus and I get, 'go back where you came.'"

"People realise I'm not from here when I start speaking. On the metro, I prefer to not say anything. I know that if I start talking, I will hear abusive language and something against my nationality."

17

Sexual Harassment and Sexist Discrimination Towards Eastern European Women

"They use, 'you Polish', 'Polish prostitute' and I remember my little boy was asking, 'what does that mean?' I said, 'Listen, don't listen, just ignore them.'"

"I've been to nightclubs. They think we're easier targets, we're more vulnerable, we're all poor, so one drink will impress us more. Men have said to me, 'Whereabouts you from? Oh, you're lucky here. Look, I'm rich' [waves hand with money]."

"It was sexual harassment too. He was talking about his penis. He started the conversation always when nobody was in the room. I said to him, 'I don't want to hear it', and he was continuing that conversation. It's happened a few times."

"His neighbours said to him [women's partner], 'you know, Eastern European women are good looking but most of them are prostitutes.'"

"I'm not going clubbing/pubbing, anything like it, anymore. Every time, I felt so uncomfortable and especially by sexist men. I'm not wearing makeup, and instead wearing my glasses, hoody, men's clothes, because that's not making attention."

18

Challenges and Barriers in Accessing Health Care and Support Services for Eastern European Women

"When I went to the hospital, I had my blue card insurance card, but then they kept on saying but you are from Europe, not from England, so you have to give us all these documents."

"Some GP surgeries, when I tell them they need an interpreter, they're like we don't do such stuff. We don't provide interpreters"

"If it's a domestic violence, sometimes you don't want to your family to be involved in it because they could take sides. So, we would want to have someone who is impartial in this situation"

"I didn't want to go to my GP 'cause I didn't know if I'm eligible to get support here."

Say it's a private matter and but just because you have no one else to translate for you, you bring someone. Having an interpreter, it's confidential. I think if you don't know the person, but if you bring someone, but then everyone knows your health issues"

"They often take kids to the GP or for medical appointments to translate for them because of lack of any other support in terms of interpreter. It could really affect children in many ways if they hear things they shouldn't. If you imagine that someone could have cancer and that's a really, really difficult situation that you have to talk with your children to talk to your doctor"

19

Interviews with Service Providers

We had this three way phone call going on, the interpreter would come on the line and then I have to wait for the woman, and so I guess that was kind of a solution in that it was positive that we did manage to find an interpreter, but in terms of like how smoothly that ran, I found that very difficult, especially when you're asking them quite personal things.

Child contact when social workers want it between the dad and the child and when mum who's working with us doesn't have any other friends or family network in the UK, you haven't got that third party they can rely on to do that contact so that makes it extremely hard for them."

Our biggest concern, something that's regularly coming from the women we work with is the impact of Brexit and the Settlement Scheme, and how that interlinks with the hostile environment, and knowing that Brexit is going to create a whole new category of women that have no recourse to public funds, women that have absolutely no status in the UK. We know that that's going to escalate the risk and the violence they're experiencing because, there's this perception that they have no status in the UK and therefore they have no right to safety and protection, from perpetrators and from services that regularly turn women away from refuges or from mainstream support.

20

Conclusions

Eastern European women living in the UK face systematic and structural discrimination in all areas of public life due to their race and/or nationality.

Eastern European women also face distinct and intersecting sex-based discrimination, including maternity/pregnancy, alongside discrimination due to other aspects of their identity including age, disability, and sexuality.

Eastern European women are victims of frequent hate crimes, including verbal and physical abuse, threats and harassment, and damage to property.

21

Conclusions

- Eastern European women face challenges and barriers in accessing health care, support, and other public services, due to language barriers, entitlement to services due to immigration status, residency and proof of ID.
- Eastern European women have experienced further uncertainty about their futures in the UK, in terms of access to welfare, health and support services, since the Brexit referendum and continue to face this uncertainty with the UK's departure from the EU.
- Covid-19 restrictions, including lockdown, have further restricted Eastern European women's access to health care, support and other public services, placing marginalised, minority and women vulnerable to abuse and exploitation at increased risk.

22

Recommendations

- I. Research team to gain funding to undertake further research into Eastern European women's access to health and other support services and identify potential solutions to the issues faced by Eastern European women living the UK.
- II. Health care, support and other public service providers to provide more widely information translated in various languages. This is particularly important for local/community-based services, such as domestic abuse, family planning, women's only services
- III. Public institutions such as schools, colleges, universities and other educational settings to raise standards in terms of monitoring and reporting discrimination and hate crimes towards the Eastern European community, and supporting victims of hate crime and discrimination
- IV. Local authorities and regional/community decision makers to provide clear pathways to support for Eastern European migrants, in areas such as housing, welfare, employment, education residency etc
- V. Public services and bodies and local authorities to establish strong links with local/community BME service providers to coordinate a more effective and efficient response to the needs of Eastern European migrants
- VI. Funding bodies, public bodies, local authorities and service providers to consider translation and interpretation costs in the procurement of services to avoid exclusion of minority and marginalised groups
- VII. Health care, support and other public services to receive training on the eligibility of services for EU citizens including healthcare, support services, housing

23

Questions

24

References

- Amnesty International and Southall Black Sisters (2006) 'No Safety: The Government's failure to protect women from violence'. London. Available at: <https://www.refugees.org.uk/Amnesty%20International%20-%20No%20course%20to%20safety.pdf> (Accessed: August 6, 2021).
- Aza K. (2015). Female Migrant Work Trajectories: Polish Women in the UK Labour Market. Central and Eastern European Migration Review 4(2): 87-105.
- Benelli, L., and Serrano, L. (2021) "EU nationals' vulnerability in the context of Brexit: the case of Polish nationals," Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies. doi: 10.1080/1369183X.2021.1710579.
- Black, A. (2004) "labour market participation and conditions of employment: A comparison of minority ethnic groups and refugees in Britain," Sociological Research Online, 9(2). doi: 10.1133/09081939.
- Brennan, J. (2005) "Mixed Methods Research: A discussion paper." Available at: <http://shearns.lit.psu.edu/viewdoc/summary?doi=10.1.1.468.360> (Accessed: October 14, 2016).
- Braun, V., and Clarke, V. (2006). "Using thematic analysis in psychology. Qualitative Research in Psychology," 3(2), 77-101. <https://doi.org/10.1191/1478088706qp003a>
- Brough, P. (Ed.) (2018). Advanced Research Methods for Applied Psychology Design, Analysis and Reporting (1st ed.). Routledge. <https://doi.org/10.4134/9781131511797>.
- Crotter, C. (2018) "Work Poverty Among Migrants," in Lohmann & Knaeuper, Handbook on Work Poverty. Crotter, S. and Lau, A. (2019) "Migrant Polish women encountering discrimination in Scottish maternity services: A qualitative descriptive study." Midwifery, 72, pp. 30-38. doi: 10.1016/j.midw.2019.02.004.
- Duda-Mikulon, E. (2020) "Gendered migrations and precarity in the post-Brexit vote UK: the case of Polish women as workers and carers," Migration and Development, 9(1). doi: 10.1080/21632123.2020.1820054.
- Duda-Mikulon, E. A. (2019) EU migrant workers, Brexit and precarity. 1st edn, EU migrant workers, Brexit and precarity. 1st edn. Bristol: Bristol University Press. doi: 10.2307/10707058.
- Edwards, R. and Brannen, T. (2017) "Approaches to deconstructing qualitative research methods", Qualitative Research, 17(3), pp. 271-277. doi: 10.1177/1468794117709889.

25

References

- Fox, J., Moragohu, L., & Salsbery, E. (2015) Denying Discrimination: Status, 'Race', and the Whiteness of Britain's New European. Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, 41.5, 729-748. DOI: 10.1080/1369183X.2014.962491
- German, S. and Yong, A. (2020) "COVID-19 highlighting inequalities in Access to healthcare in England: A Case Study of Ethnic Minority and Migrant Women." Feminist legal studies, 28(3), pp. 151-165. doi: 10.1007/s10691-020-09417-z
- Gurewicz-Oreli, B., Pawlowska-Honam, G. and Hansson, K. (2019) "Gendered work and leisure mobilities of Polish migrants in the North East of England", Tourism Review, Vol. 74 No. 5, pp. 1025-1037. <https://doi.org/10.1108/TR-02-2017-0029>
- Hammerley, M. and Campbell, L. J. (2012) What is qualitative research? Bloombury Publishing
- Harris, C., Gzawlewicz, A. and Valentine, G. (2019) "Attitudes towards immigration: responses to the increased presence of Polish migrants in the UK post 2004." Migration and Development, pp. 1-20. doi: 10.1080/21632124.2019.1697489.
- Hattersley, S. (2018) "Why was the scheme behind May's 'Go Home' vans called Operation Vaken?" The Guardian. Available at: <https://www.theguardian.com/commentandanalysis/2018/jul/26/why-was-go-home-van-operation-vaken-scheme> (Accessed: August 6, 2021).
- Home Office UK (2013) Operation Vaken: Evaluation Report. Immigration Act 2014. Available at: <https://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2014/22/content/enacted/Accessed%20August%206%2021>
- Immigration Act 2016. Available at: <https://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2016/19/content/enacted> (Accessed: August 6, 2021).
- Inskan (2020) The Impact of the Dual Pandemic: Violence Against Women & Girls and COVID-19 on Black and Minoritized Women & Girls. Integration up North (2020) Women and migration. Leeds. Available at: www.womencentre.org.uk (Accessed: July 20, 2021).
- Janta, H. (2011) "Polish migrant workers in the UK hospitality industry: Profits, work experience and methods for accessing employment," International Journal of Contemporary Hospitality Management, 23(6), pp. 803-819. doi: 10.1108/09596111111153484. Johnson, R. B.,

26

References

- Ormoughlin, A. J. and Turner, L. A. (2007) "Toward a Definition of Mixed Methods Research," Journal of Mixed Methods Research, 1(1/2). doi: 10.1177/1538688606288224
- Phutala, B. and Fox, J. (2016) "Have European immigrants migrating to the nation in Britain: is there a trade-off between unemployment and over-qualification?" <https://doi.org/10.1080/1369183X.2016.1164048>. doi: 10.1080/1369183X.2016.1164048
- Koffman, E. et al. (2020) The equity implications of being a migrant in Britain. Available at: www.equalityhumanrights.com (Accessed: August 5, 2021).
- Iordanou, F., Goble, J. and Black, A. (2019) "It Will Not Be Proper Out of the Country Because I'm an Immigrant": Eastern European Migrants' Responses to Hate Crime in a Semi-Rural Context in the West of Wales." Sociological Research Online, 14(2), pp. 147-164. doi: 10.1177/1468794118811965
- Michalik, M., Cioa, J. and Brak, B. (2021) "The role of information in the migration experience of young Polish women in the UK," Journal of Documentation, Vol. 76 No. 4, pp. 849-868. <https://doi.org/10.1108/JDoc-09-2020-0158>
- Mielniczewska, K., Karabulut, T. and Matusiak, P. J. (2020) "Perceived stress and well-being of Polish migrants in the UK after Brexit vote." FIOS ONE, 15(7), p. e0230168. doi: 10.1371/journal.pone.0230168
- Mielniczewska, K., Szefer, C. B. and Mielniczewska, M. (2017) "Examining the role of positive and negative in-group contact and anti-immigrant prejudice in Brexit." British Journal of Social Psychology, 56(4), pp. 799-808. doi: 10.1111/bjps.12203.
- Miles, J. & Gilbert, P. (Eds.). (2001) A handbook of research methods for clinical and health psychology. Oxford University Press.
- National Public Health for Wales Cymru (2016) Guidance on behalf of the National Public Health Council. Available at: http://www.nphw.gov.uk/education_support/ (Accessed: January 14, 2021).
- NHS England (2016) Improving access for all: reducing inequalities in access to general practice services.
- Nyanchika, L., Tucker-Smith, C., Pothier, R. et al. (2010) Key stakeholders' perspectives and experiences with defining, identifying and displaying gaps in health research: a qualitative study protocol. BMC Open. doi: 10.1186/1745-2875-1018-107858
- Office for National Statistics (2021) Population of the UK by country of birth and nationality: individual country data (July 2020 to June 2021 edition) [Online]. Available at: <https://www.ons.gov.uk/peoplepopulationandcommunity/legislationandmigration/cross-nationalmigration/ethnicity/populationoftheukbycountryofbirthandnationality> (Accessed: 04 January 2022).

27

References

- Polonsky, A., Rzesutka, E., & Kuczyńska, M. M. (2016). Labour Market Disadvantages Faced by Migrant Women from Czech Republic, Hungary, and Slovakia in Britain. Migration Letters, 12(6), 585-594. <https://doi.org/10.3382/20141264720>
- Rzesutka, E., Kuczyńska, M., & Rzesutka, A. (2020). Encouraging postnatal mobility: Polish migrants' care intentions concerning their elderly parents. Journal of Family Research, 32(1), 473-484. <https://doi.org/10.1007/s10891-019-00907-7>
- Roberts, J. et al. (2018). Material and ethnic health of Eastern Europeans in Bradford, UK: A qualitative study. "Community HealthCare", 31(9). Available at: https://www.european-ethnology.com/2018/09/09/2018090901_ethnic_health_of_Eastern_Europeans_in_Bradford_UK_A_qualitative_study (Accessed August 4, 2021).
- Rodriguez, K. et al. (2011). "Culturally Responsive Focus Groups: Enhancing the Research Experience to Focus on Participants". International Journal of Qualitative Methods, pp. 400-417. doi: 10.1177/1548864310380007
- Rzesutka, E. (2021). "Nation and xenophobia experienced by Polish migrants in the UK before and after Brexit vote." Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, 45(1), pp. 61-77. doi: 10.1080/09646460.2018.1411586
- Rzesutka, E. (2020). Migrant Experiences of Citizenship in the Context of Brexit: Polish Migrant Women in Manchester. Central and Eastern European Migration Review 3(1) 45-61. doi: 10.17467/centr.2020.05
- Rubin, L., & Whelan, L. (2018). Gender and free movement: Do migrant women's access to residence and social rights in the UK. Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, 44(1), 137-153. doi: 10.1080/09646460.2017.1348929
- Sims, B. (2018). "I think that Polish doctors are better": Family-arrived migrant children and their parents' experience and views of health services in Scotland." Health & Place, 50, pp. 86-93. doi: 10.1016/j.healthplace.2018.05.006
- Sotgiou, I., & Czemiel, A. The politics of embedding and the right to remain in post-Brexit Britain. Ethnicities, 20(2), 210-234. doi:10.1177/0487260119851619
- The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) (2021) Hate crime | The Crown Prosecution Service. Available at: <https://www.cps.gov.uk/hate-crime> (Accessed July 20, 2021).
- Yehliu, H.-A., Rodriguez, M., & Roberts, J. et al. (2018). "Comparing two sampling methods to engage hard-to-reach communities in research: priority setting." BMC Medical Research Methodology, 18, 146. <https://doi.org/10.1186/s12874-018-0512-2>
- Wiles, L. and McGeever, B. (2018) "Thick, Crisp, Brisk," Ethnic and Racial Studies, 41(10), pp. 1812-1819. doi: 10.1080/01690707.2017.1361544